Advance Training Course on Techniques & Procedure of Arbitration

29-30 July, 2017 – Hotel Taj Deccan, Hyderabad

Introduction

Besides domestic commercial disputes, a phenomenal increase in international commerce owing to globalization has made disputes between parties of different nationalities common. The problem is not only of numbers but more so of the urgency attached to most of these disputes which mean great loss for the businesses.

Arbitration is recognized as effective model of dispute resolution as it has flexibility, lower costs, shorter time, privacy, selection of decision makers thereby resulting in broader party satisfaction. Proceedings in courts involve notoriety and expose the internal and private affairs of parties to public.

The Advance Training Course on Techniques & Procedure of Alternative Dispute Resolution

In order impart knowledge in the techniques & procedure of arbitration, ASSOCHAM International Council of Alternate Dispute Resolution (AICADR) in collaboration with Singapore International Arbitration Centre (SIAC) is organizing a two day Advance Training Course on Techniques & Procedure of Arbitration on 29-30 July, 2017 at Hotel Taj Deccan, Hyderabad.

The course will be useful particularly for legal and arbitration practitioners, young professionals of law firms, legal and commercial managers of public and private sectors, Chartered engineers, chartered accountants and all others who are involved in the actual practice and procedure of arbitration.
